THE MEANING OF TERMS

Client/Consumer is a person entering a legal business or operating on the market outside his trade, business, craft, or professional activity

Consumer agreement is an agreement concluded by the Consumer and the Service provider acting within the framework of his trade, business, craft, or professional activity, including a person acting on behalf of or on behalf of that person.

The User is a person accessing the website of the Service provider, including the Client and the Consumer.

The terms used in these General Terms and Conditions and have gender meaning are used neutrally and apply equally to the other genders.

GENERAL INFORMATION ABOUT THE SERVICES

These General Terms and Conditions represent a binding agreement between AntIng, craft for software programming, Lovinčićeva ulica 7, 10000 Zagreb, owner Marko Primožić, PIN: 36204471817 as a Service provider and a user of the Services (the Consumer) as a service recipient in the field of software programming services and other similar activities that are part of the Service provider's services.

These General Terms and Conditions also represent pre-contractual notices.

The General Terms and Conditions are drawn up in accordance with the Croatian Law of Obligations, the Consumer

GENERAL TERMS AND CONDITION B2C

Protection Act, and all other applicable regulations of the Republic of Croatia and in accordance with the rules of the European Union.

By ordering the Services, it is considered that the Consumer has read, taken note of all the notices, and has given consent to these General Terms and Conditions.

The Consumer is not eligible to accept these General Terms and Conditions or use the Service Provider's services if the Consumer is not of legal age to form a binding contract with the Service provider or if the Consumer is barred by law to use the Service Provider's services.

The Service provider provides next services:

- Software development
- Software consultation
- Software and computer management
- Other services related to information technology

The services are provided with the care of a good businessman and the Consumer will be, for each service, provided with detailed and accurate information in an accurate and non-misleading way. By accepting these General Terms and Conditions, the Consumer accepts the service description offered to them and confirms that they are familiar with it. The Service provider reserves the right to change or modify the service description at any time and at its sole discretion, but when the description for the services has been provided to the Consumer and after they have requested the services, changes will not affect the services they have requested.

TERMS OF USE

These General Terms and Conditions are referred to Consumers that are defined as Consumers by the Croatian Consumer Protection Act.

To provide services, the Service provider may require certain information. The Consumer must ensure that the information is complete and accurate. The Service provider may suspend or terminate any service if the Consumer provides information that is not complete and accurate. Consumer warrants that all information Consumer provides to the Service provider are complete and accurate and the Consumer indemnifies the Service provider against any liability that may arise as a result of Consumer's failure to provide complete and accurate information. The Consumer must immediately notify the Service provider if any of the Consumer information changes.

The Consumer agrees that the Service provider may freely transfer the contracted work to other subcontractors. The Service provider may agree to bypass these rules if the nature of the services requires so.

The Consumer cannot transfer any of their rights or obligations under the Agreement to any other person without the prior written consent of the Service provider. If the Services are delivered by the Service provider and paid in full by the Consumer this term is not applicable. Any new request that follows, after the ordered services have been delivered, will be considered as a new order and will be charged separately.

ORDERS AND TERMINATION

GENERAL TERMS AND CONDITION B2C

Orders are made in writing or in another method of communication. Contracts are signed by hand or electronically.

The Consumer can terminate this agreement without giving reasons for it if the Services are ordered outside the premises or concluded remotely from the date of its conclusion and no later than 14 days from the day that the Services have been ordered.

The Consumer is not entitled to terminate agreement or services if:

- the Services are fully fulfilled and the Consumer gave explicit prior consent for service delivery and their confirmation that they are aware of the fact that they will lose the right to terminate this agreement if the services are fully fulfilled. It is considered that the Consumer has given their consent when they ordered the services or when they entered into a service contract
- the Services are made according to the Consumer's specification or are adapted to the Consumer
- and in other legally-established cases

The Service provider may also terminate this Agreement with immediate effect by notice to the Consumer if:

- the Consumer commits a material breach of the Agreement and (where such breach is capable of remedy) fails to remedy the breach within 14 days of a written notice from the Service provider
- any licence required for the Service provider to operate the Services is revoked, terminated or modified or,
- in the case of new licence requirements that prevent the Service provider from continuing to make the services available.

Termination of the Agreement for any reason does not affect any rights that have accrued to either party under the Agreement up to the date of its termination.

The Service provider and the Consumer may agree on other terms in their mutual Agreement.

A RIGHT TO REFUSE THE CONCLUSION OF A CONTRACT AND/OR TO PROVIDE THE SERVICES

The Service provider may refuse to sign a contract or provide Services in the following situations:

- If the Consumer does not pay 2 consecutive invoices
- If the Consumer uses or wants to use the Services provided for illegal purposes
- If the Consumer damages the reputation of the Service provider
- In other statutory cases

PLACE OF SERVICE, DELIVERY TIME, INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY, CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

The Service provider determines the place, the time, and how the services are performed. If it is necessary, the Consumer must also be able to provide access to its premises and/or equipment and/or computer/software system and respond to inquiries of the Service provider.

When the services are provided according to the Consumer's technical specifications or the service results being delivered are adapted to the needs of the Consumer, the Consumer is obliged to provide these specifications and/or provide unequivocal and clear information about what should the result of the service contain. In case of changes in specifications and/or needs, the Consumer is obliged to inform the Service provider about the new specifications and/or needs immediately. If the Consumer does not inform the Service Provider of the desired changes, and the Service Provider delivers the service and the work without knowledge of the changes, the delivery will be considered orderly, and the Consumer will be obliged to pay the agreed price of the services without the possibility of objecting to the shortcomings. If the Consumer informs the Service Provider of the new specifications and/or needs, but is delayed in the delivery of those specifications and/or needs, the delivery time of the service shall be extended by the minimum time that has elapsed due to the delay of the Consumer. The Service Provider may consent to provide the service within the originally agreed deadlines, however in that case the Service provider reserves the right to increase the price of the service.

The Service provider undertakes to provide its services within a reasonable and/or agreed timeframe, except in case of a higher power, illness, and other justifiable cases of which the Consumer will be notified in time.

The Service provider is authorized to make partial delivery of the services the nature of the services requires a different kind of delivery.

Any information or work in progress, trade secrets, or any other materials related to the business or project of the Service provider, including, without limitation, all computer codes (source codes, objects, and executable) and all associated algorithms, diagrams, charts, descriptions, and other documentation, constitute confidential Information (hereinafter, the Confidential Information). The Consumer shall not, either during the provision of services or at any time thereafter, use, copy or disclose to any third party any such Confidential Information, unless such use, copying, or disclosure has been authorized in advance in writing by the Service provider.

The Consumer undertakes to respect the intellectual property rights of the Service provider.

If the services are performed for the Consumer as “work for hire” (computer program, code, etc.), upon the payment of the Services, the Service provider will pass all the intellectual property rights to the Consumer.

The Service provider and its personnel undertake to respect the intellectual property rights of the Consumer.

The Client hereby grants the Service provider the right to to use and display the services

By accepting these General Terms and conditions the Consumer grants the right to the Service provider to use and display the work he has done for the Consumer for a promotional means on the respective websites or other promotional material.

All content, trademarks, and data on the Service provider website, including software, databases, text, graphics, icons, hyperlinks, private information, and designs are the property of or licensed to the Service provider, and as such, are protected from infringement by domestic and international legislation and treaties. Subject to the rights afforded to the Consumer in these Terms, all other intellectual property rights on this website are expressly reserved.

Content from the Service provider website may not be used or exploited for any commercial purposes without the Service provider’s prior written consent.

PRICES AND PAYMENTS

GENERAL TERMS AND CONDITION B2C

The Service provider may charge its service on the basis of billable hours and/or as a fixed fee, depending on the agreement with the Consumer.

The price of the services is formed according to the scope of the Services provided.

Prices are delivered to the Consumer through an offer, by displaying the price list or other methods, and the prices shown in the price list are subject to change. Any change in prices that might occur shall be communicated to the Consumer via email and/or noted on the Service provider's website.

For the work performed, the Service provider is obliged to invoice the Consumer. Invoices are printed on a computer. The invoice is issued when the service is delivered. If there are multiple deliveries of the services, then the Service provider may charge the Consumer for each delivery or may invoice the Consumer at the end of the current month, which is taken as an accounting period by the law of the Republic of Croatia.

The Consumer is obliged to pay the invoice according to the indicative maturity, in case of late payment the Service provider has all rights to ask for interest in accordance with Art. 29th of the Croatian Law of Obligations, as well as other costs that may appear because of the late payment.

LIABILITY, ACTIONS AND COMPLAINS

By accepting these General Terms and Conditions, the Consumer accepts that the Service provider provides services to them within its technical and operational capabilities.

The Service provider will inform the Consumer about any difficulties in the realization of the contracted services.

If due to the Consumer's action for which they are responsible, there is an unexpected extension of the performance of the services, the Consumer will not be exempted from their obligation to pay the costs to the Service provider.

The Consumer acknowledges and agrees that the availability of the services and Consumer's ability to access and/or use the services may depend upon factors beyond the Service provider's reasonable control for which the Service provider will not be responsible.

The Service provider cannot guarantee that the services and/or product of the services will be available to Consumer at all times or free from faults or interruptions for which the Service provider will not be responsible.

The Service provider will not be in any way liable for any failure to make the services available to Consumers to the extent that such failure results from a technical or another failure on the part of any Network Operator or any other event which is beyond the Service provider's reasonable control. The Service provider will provide all services "as they are" and "as available", and the Service provider does not warrant, represent or guarantee, whether expressly or by implication, that any services are free of errors or interruptions, always available and fit for any purpose.

The Service provider is not obliged to pay compensation if the level of quality of the services performed is less than the prescribed level of quality of the service due to objective causes that could not have been predicted or avoided or eliminated (higher power) or are conditional on the Consumer's will or actions.

GENERAL TERMS AND CONDITION B2C

The Service provider is not liable for any damages caused to the Consumer and/or third parties for improper or unlawful use of the services and products that are delivered.

If the Consumer cancels the order for which the services have already been made, the Consumer is obliged to compensate for the damage caused.

The Consumer is liable for any omissions or damages which may arise from non-compliance with the obligation to provide data on the resulting changes, as well as due to non-compliance with the obligation to provide any other data requested by the Service provider that is necessary for providing the Services.

If the Consumer does not pay the services in accordance with the applicable payment terms, the Service provider reserves the right to, in the Service provider's sole discretion, suspend Consumer access to the services.

The Service provider is liable for the material defects that may occur on the product of the services at the time of the risk transition to the Consumer regardless of whether it was known to the Service provider. The Service provider is also responsible for those material defects that arise after the risk is transferred to the Consumer if they are due to the cause that existed before that. It is assumed that the deficiency that occurred within one year of the transition of the risk to the Consumer existed at the time of the risk transition unless the Service provider proves otherwise or otherwise arises from the nature of the matter.

The Consumer is not obliged to review the product of the Services or to have it inspected but is obliged to inform the Service provider of the existence of visible defects within two months of the date on which they discovered the defect (preclusive period - under threat of loss of rights), and no later than two years after the transfer of the risk to the Consumer. The Service provider is not liable for the shortcomings that arise after two years since the delivery of the service product.

The Service provider is not liable for defects if they were known to the Consumer at the time of the service delivery or could not remain unknown to them.

If the Consumer has informed the Service provider of the defect in a timely and orderly manner, they are authorised to:

- require the Service provider to eliminate the deficiency
- require the Service provider to hand over other service products without shortcomings
- require a proportionate price reduction
- declare that they are terminating the contract

The Consumer has the right to withhold payment of any outstanding part of the price until the Service provider fulfils its obligations based on liability for material defects.

If the defect is insignificant, the Consumer is not entitled to terminate the contract but is entitled to other rights under liability for material defects including the right to repair the damage.

The Consumer may terminate the contract only if he has previously given the Service Provider a subsequent appropriate deadline for the fulfilment of the contract.

In accordance to Art. 10 of the Consumer Protection Act, the Provider allows Consumers to file a written complaint through:

Headquarter address: Lovinčičeva ulica 7, 10000 Zagreb

E-mail: marko.primozic@gmail.com

The Service provider undertakes to respond to all complaints within a maximum of 15 working days.

GENERAL TERMS AND CONDITION B2C

In the event of a dispute between the Consumer and the Service Provider, the Consumer may file an application for resolving the dispute with the Mediation Centre at the Croatian Chamber of Commerce, the Conciliation Centre of the Croatian Chamber of Trades and Crafts, the Mediation Centre at the Croatian Mediation Association, the Court of Honor of the Croatian Chamber of Trades and Crafts, the Court of Honor at the Croatian Chamber of Commerce.

PRIVACY AND COOKIE POLICY

In accordance with Regulation (Eu) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 27 April 2016 on the Protection of a person With Regard To The Processing Of Personal Data And On The Free Movement Of Such Data, And Repealing Directive 95/46/EC (General Data Protection Regulation) and the current laws of the Republic of Croatia governing the area of personal data protection, the Service provider is committed to affirming the principles of legal, fair and transparent processing of personal data.

The Service provider protect User's personal data, in such a way that it collects only necessary, basic data, about Users that are necessary for the fulfilment of Service provider's obligations. The Service provider regularly informs Users about the usage of collected data, and gives Users the option of choosing the way their personal data will be used. All Users data is safely stored and are available only to employees who needs this data to perform their work. All employees of the Service provider and business partners are responsible for respecting the principles of privacy protection.

The User guarantees that the information he provides is accurate, complete, and up-to-date. By accepting this Privacy and Cookie Policy, the User confirms that he agrees with the use of his personal data for the above-mentioned purposes. All communication related to the order process and conclusion of the sales contract is carried out via e-mail and/or telephone number that the User provides.

In the event of a dispute before the court, the court of actual jurisdiction is in Zagreb, Republic of Croatia, on whose territory the Service providers headquarter is located.

Data collection

Personal data is any data relating to an individual whose identity is known or can be determined. An identifiable individual is a person who can be identified directly or indirectly, especially with the help of identifiers such as a name, personal identification number, location data and network identifier. They can be identified with the help of one or more factors inherent in the physical, physiological, genetic, mental, economic, cultural or social identity of that individual.

The Service provider collects information about the User that allows the Service provider to ensure the smooth operation of its website and to provide the User with the best possible experience on its website and during the time that the services are provided. Generally speaking, the Service provider distinguishes between (a) personal data that the User provides to the Service provider, (b) personal data that the Service provider collects automatically, and (c) personal data that the Service provider receives from another source.

Personal data that User gives to the Service provider

For example, the Service provider collects data that the User provides when he visits the Service provider's website, when he orders one of the services, when the User gives the Service provider service feedback or makes a complaint about a particular service, and in other cases.

Consent

It is considered that the User has given consent to the collection of his personal data when he has agreed to these

GENERAL TERMS AND CONDITION B2C

General Terms and Conditions. The User can receive the form by which he will give special consent for the collection of personal data.

Personal data that the Service provider collects automatically

There is also Personal Data that the Service provider collects automatically. This is data that the Service provider record when the User uses its websites or when the User uses some of the Service provider's services. Whenever the User uses the Service provider websites or, for example, when the User read one of the Service providers e-mails, certain information (which is not necessarily personal data) is created and automatically collected.

The Service provider collects such data to pursue a legitimate interest, and for these General Terms and Conditions, the Service provider considers them to be Personal Data that he collects automatically.

Cookies

To improve the quality and constantly improve the User experience, the website www.anting.hr saves small text files called cookies on a User's computer or other electronic devices when the User visits it. Examples of information about the use of the site include the most visited and most viewed pages and links on the Service provider website, the number of completed forms, time spent on the page, the most popular keywords that lead users to the Service providers site, IP address, data of the device from which User access the site such as hardware settings, system activities, browser types, etc.

The Directive of the European Union dated May 26, 2012, obliges website owners to request user's consent before storing cookies. By clicking on the "I agree" button, the User gives its consent to the use of cookies. By clicking on the "See more about cookies" button, the User can view the Privacy and Cookie Policy.

The Service provider uses cookies to be able to make further improvements to this site, to improve Users browsing experience on his site and to make Users experience as positive as possible. The Service provider will not use cookies together with Users personal data without Users prior consent. The Service providers data processing is based on the legal provisions of valid positive regulations.

The Service provider uses cookies to be able to make further improvements to this site, to improve the User's browsing experience on his site, and to make the User's experience as positive as possible. The Service provider will not use cookies together with the User's data without Users prior consent. The Service provider's data processing is based on the legal provisions of valid positive regulations.

Cookies are small text files placed on Users device to store data, which can be recalled by the web server in the domain that placed the "Cookie". The Service provider uses cookies for enabling online advertising, fighting fraud, analyzing the performance of its services and for other legitimate purposes. The Service provider may also use web trackers to deliver cookies and collect usage and performance data. The Service provider websites may include web companions, cookies, or similar technology from third-party service providers.

If the User wishes to, he can block cookies and continue browsing the site, which may lead to the fact that some functions of the website can no longer be fully used. Under no circumstances will the people behind the data be identified or personal data be collected, following the Data Protection Regulation.

To order service on the Service provider website, the User should enable the use of cookies. If the User do not enable cookies, he will still be able to use our pages, but certain functionalities may be disabled. Most web browsers enable the use of cookies in their settings, but the User can change these settings in the settings of his web browser (on a computer, tablet, or other mobile devices).

Cookies cannot damage the User's device. The Service provider never stores personal information, such as the User's debit/credit card information, in cookies, but the Service provider does use the encrypted and anonymized information it collects from cookies to improve its website - for example, to detect and fix errors that sometimes occur on websites.

Cookies are not computer programs; they cannot read other information stored on the Users device. They cannot be used to transmit computer viruses or to obtain User data such as e-mail addresses, etc. The Service provider may have an agreement with carefully selected and monitored suppliers who, in a small number of cases, may set cookies during the Users visit to the Service provider website, and use the same for re-marketing purposes - that is, to show the Users services based on the Users assumed interests and preferential selections. Please be sure to take into account that the Service provider is not and cannot be responsible for the content of websites that are not his or that the Service provider does not control. The Service provider cookies do not contain personal information, such as the User's first or last name, or payment information. If the User wants to limit, block or delete cookies from any website under the control of the Service provider, the User can do so in his web browser settings. Every web browser is different, so the Service provider suggests User looks for such options in the 'Help' section of his web browser. The User must be aware that by doing so, he may cause certain functionalities of the Service provider website to not work. If the User needs more information about cookies, he can visit All About Cookies | Online Privacy and Digital Security.

Re-marketing

When the User visits the Service provider website, cookies are used to generate data that Google collects and processes. User can prevent this by downloading and installing the Google Analytics Opt-out Browser Add-on Download Page

The User can find more information about the processing of user data by Safeguarding your data - Analytics Help \(google.com\)

There are currently several websites that can be used to disable the storage of cookies for different services. The User can get more information at the following links:

Personal data received from another source

Finally, it is possible for the Service provider to receive personal data about the User from another source. For example, the Service provider can receive information about the User via 'social networks', and then the Service provider will use them exclusively to achieve some legitimate interest, and for the purposes of this General Terms and conditions the Service provider consider them as Personal data that he receives from another source.

Data processing

The Service provider uses the obtained User data for one or more of the following purposes:

- To personalize the user experience (collected information helps the Services provider better respond to the individual needs)
- To improve website of the Service provider
- To establish the primary channel of communication
- To send occasional emails (concerning occasional news, updates, information about services, etc.)

Sharing information about the Users

Only when it is necessary, the Service provider will share the Users personal data with the following categories of recipients:

GENERAL TERMS AND CONDITION B2C

- Associates of the Service provider and related companies
- Third parties who have information about User's finances, such as financial or credit institutions
- Public-legal bodies, when, acting in good faith, the Service provider has reason to believe that this is necessary to comply with a legal obligation
- Other service providers who provide a specific service on the behalf of the Service provider, or possibly third-party IT service providers with whom the Service provider has entered into appropriate contracts for the processing of personal data (or there are other appropriate mechanisms).

Other websites

The Service provider's website may contain links to other websites. These General Terms and Conditions apply only to websites managed by the Service provider, so when the User clicks on a link that takes him to other websites, he should read their rules and privacy policies.

Data protection

To protect the personal data, the Service provider receives through the website, the Service provider uses physical, technical, and organizational security measures. The Services provider is constantly upgrading and testing its security technology. The Services provider limits access to personal information to only those employees who need to know that information to provide benefits or services.

In addition, the Service provider educates his employees about the importance of data confidentiality and the preservation of privacy, and the protection of the User's data.

Personal data that is exchanged between the User and the Service provider through the Service provider's website is transmitted using the most modern connections. All used IT systems are protected against unauthorized access to security systems, and employees are obliged to keep data confidential. However, the Service provider has no effect on the transmission of data over the Internet and therefore cannot exclude misuse of third-party access.

Individual rights

If the User wants to know whether the Services provider own and process Users personal data, or if the User wants to access his personal data, User can contact the Service provider at: marko.primozic@gmail.com.

The User may also demand the following information: the purpose of data processing, categories of personal data under processing, who else outside of the Service provider company has received personal data from the Service provider, who is the source of the personal data (if not directly provided to the Service provider) and how long the Service provider will keep the data. The User has the right to correct the personal data that the Service provider has if it is incorrect. User can also, with certain exceptions, request that the Service provider deletes the data or stop processing it. The User may ask the Service provider to stop using personal data for direct marketing purposes.

If it is technically feasible, the Service provider will, based on the request, send personal data to the User or transfer them directly to another data controller.

If the User submits a request to marko.primozic@gmail.com for sending the Users his personal data, the Service provider will comply with that request within a reasonable period of 14 working days. If the Service provider cannot comply with the request within a reasonable time, the Service provider will inform the User of the date when the Service provider will comply with the request. If for some reason the Service provider cannot fulfil that request, the Service provider will send an explanation of why he did not fulfil the Users request.

Based on the General Data Protection Regulation, User has the following rights:

The right to object

GENERAL TERMS AND CONDITION B2C

This right allows the User to object to the processing of the Users personal data, in those cases where the Service provider process the Users personal data on one of the following legal bases:

- because the processing of personal data is in our legitimate interest
- to fulfill a contractual obligation
- for scientific, research, marketing, or statistical purposes

In these circumstances, the processing of the Users personal data based on legitimate interest will most often be applied. If the Service provider is unable to demonstrate that it has a convincing and legitimate basis for processing the users' personal data, which goes beyond the Users rights and interests, the Service provider will stop processing the Users personal data.

The right to withdraw consent

In cases where the Service provider has to obtained the Users consent for certain actions, the User is entitled to withdraw the given consent at any time and the Service provider will stop using the Users personal data for this purpose unless the Service provider believes that there is an alternative legal basis that would justify the further processing of the Users personal data for this purpose, in which case the Service provider will inform the User about it.

The right of access

The User can also request information about the purpose of the data processing, the categories of personal data being processed, who else outside of the Service provider company has received personal data from the Service provider, and what is the source of the personal data (if the User has not provided it directly to the Service provider) and how long the Service provider will keep the data.

If it is technically feasible, the Service provider will send the User personal data based on his request or transfer them directly to another data controller.

At any time, the User is authorised to ask us for a copy of the information the Service provider has about the User, as well as to ask the Service provider to modify, update or delete this information. The Service provider may ask the User for additional information about the Users request. If the Service provider provide the User with access to the data the Service provider holds about the User, the Service provider will do so free of charge, unless the processing of the request is manifestly unfounded or excessive. In case the User request additional copies of this data from the Service provider, a proportionate administrative fee may be charged. The Users request may be denied in cases where this is legally permitted.

The right to deletion

In certain circumstances, the User is authorized to request that the Service provider "deletes" the User's personal data. For example, the User has this right in the following cases:

- The Service provider no longer needs the Users data for the purpose for which it was initially collected
- The User has withdrawn the consent he gave to the Service provider to process the Users personal data and there is no other legal basis for the Service provider to continue processing the Users personal data (in cases where the legal basis for processing personal data is Consent)
- Data was processed without a valid legal basis
- Deletion of data is necessary to comply with the Service provider's legal obligations
- The User has objected to the processing of personal data, and the Service provider is unable to prove the existence of a legitimate legal basis that exceeds the User's rights and interests, based on which the Service provider would be authorized to continue processing the Users personal data

The Service provider is authorized to reject the Users request for data deletion only in a limited number of cases, and in such cases, the Service provider will explain the reasons for the rejection in detail.

Right to restrict processing

In certain circumstances, the User has the right to request that the Service Provider restrict the processing of his personal data, for example, if the User disputes the accuracy of the personal data held by the Service Provider about the User or if the User objects to the processing of his personal data based on the legitimate interest of the Service Provider.

The right to rectification

The User has the right to correct the personal data that the Service provider holds if it is incorrect.

The User has the right to request the correction of any inaccurate or incomplete information we have about you. If the Service provider has shared the Users data with third parties, the Service provider will notify them of the correction, unless this is not possible or would cause disproportionate difficulties. The User is also authorized to request information about third parties to whom the Service provider has provided incorrect or incomplete personal information. If the Service provider considers that it is not reasonably possible to act on the Users request, the Service provider will inform the User about this and the Service provider will explain the reasons for such a decision.

The right to transfer

If the User wishes, the User is authorized to request the transfer of its personal data to another data controller. This right actually means that it is possible to request that the Users personal data be transferred to a third party. In order to enable the User to do this, the Service provider will transfer the Users data to the User in the usual, machine-readable form so that the User can transfer its personal data to a third party.

Period of storage of the Users personal data

Following the Users rights as a data subject, the Service provider will store the data in accordance with the relevant regulations, whereby the storage periods may depend on the fulfilment of some of the Service provider obligations based on a certain regulation. In any case, when it is determined that the Service provider no longer needs the Users data and that the legal deadlines for keeping such records and data have passed, the Service provider will delete the Users personal data.

Contact

If the User wishes to exercise one of the aforementioned rights or withdraw his consent for the processing of his personal data (in cases where consent is the legal basis for the processing of the User's personal data), the User can contact the Service provider at any time in the following way:

Notification of personal data breach

In the event of a personal data breach, the Service provider will notify those whose data is at risk and the competent supervisory authority by e-mail within 72 hours about the extent of the breach, the data covered, the possible impact on the Service provider's services, and the Service provider planned measures to secure data and limit any adverse effects by individuals.

GENERAL TERMS AND CONDITION B2C

Changes to privacy policy

The Service provider reserves the right to change this Privacy and Cookie Policy in accordance with changes in legal provisions, business policies of the Service provider company, or other circumstances that affect the area of data protection. In case of changes, the Service provider will inform the User about it on the website and update the date of modification of the Privacy and Cookie Policy.

The Service provider regularly reviews this Privacy and Cookie Policy and, if necessary, supplement them with additional information because the Service provider cares about the Users privacy.

The right to complain to the competent authority

At any time, the User can send a complaint to the supervisory authority regarding the collection and processing of personal data. In the Republic of Croatia, the User can file a complaint to
